FEDERAL JUDGES.

Their Finances are to get a Boom.

Special to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Mr. Collins, from the committee on judiciary reported a bill fixing the salaries of United States district judges at $5,000.

The secretary of the treasury, this afternoon, issued a call for $10,000,000 three per cent. bonds for June 1.

POWDERLY AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Grand Master Powderly and Messrs. Hays and Turner, of the Knights of Labor, arrived this morning to be examined this afternoon by a select committee on the western strikes.

The committee for the investigation of the strikes on railroads in the southwest, held their first meeting this afternoon. Mr. Powderly was the first witness examined.

CABINET OFFICERS.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Secretary Manning's illness is undoubtedly due to overwork. He came here from Albany the previous day. His eye was bright, his step steady and his countenance clear. His frame was well oiled. He had been accustomed to walking a good deal in Albany, and his work was such as to keep him moving about. Here he took no exercise whatever, and he worked harder than even Folger had done before him. He lived at first at the Arlington hotel, which is about two blocks from the tomb-like treasury. His carriage was called to carry him this short distance, and on cabinet days he rode to the White House, which is situated just around the corner and whose front door is not 300 feet away from the side door of the treasury. When his wife came here, and he moved out to Dupont circle, he took, for a time, a short drive after he left the department, and Mrs. Manning came down in the carriage for him almost daily. During the winter these drives were often omitted, and the only bright spots in it are the south rooms, which look out toward the Washington monument and across the Potomac to Arlington and the Virginia hills. Three of these rooms, on the second floor, constitute the offices of the secretary of the treasury, and it is in these that Manning has spent the greater part of the past year.

Let me give you his daily life. He rose from his bed at 6 o'clock and by 8 or a little later his carriage brought him to the department. Entering by the basement door, he would ride to his floor in the elevator, and immediately begin at his mail, with his stenographic secretary sitting on the opposite side of his big desk, and ready to take down his answers to the letters as he looked them over. This first mail would perhaps contain 300 letters, and most of these would require much thought. He would be answering them when 10 or 11 o'clock came, and with this hour a throng of callers, business men and office seekers. At first he receives these, as the president does, and then he turns them to his office and going around the ring talking to each and shaking hands with every one. This was also his habit in Albany, and he found it took up too much of his time. He then took refuge in his ante-room and admitted only such callers as had important business. About 2 o'clock the callers would be shut off and the secretary would take his lunch. This he would eat at his desk, and it was brought down by his boy from his home to him. It generally consisted of some fruit and a sandwich of chicken, turkey or tongue. Manning would not even rest while he was eating it, but more than one or two dinner officials admitted and would discuss questions of finance and would look over the papers which they presented to him. He would then go back to answering letters. Besides the 300 of the first mail, he would now find, perhaps, that 100 or 200 additional had come in. About 4 o'clock a number of letters and papers would be brought to him to sign, and I doubt not that these often ran into the hundreds. It would take thought to look over them, and when he was through he would again dictate letters until about 6 o'clock. Then his carriage and Mrs. Manning would come, and he would go out home. He did not come to the treasury at night, but he always took work home with him, and he often sat up as late as 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. He worked more hours than the street car driver, and his brain had less rest than the pendulum of a 400-day clock. He paid little attention to society, gave more than one or two dinners during the whole season, and went to none except those of the cabinet ministers and the president.

It is a mistake to say that Secretary Manning has had these attacks before. He has been in good health up to his coming to Washington, and has had no sickness to speak of since he was about 19 years old. At this time I think he was connected with the printing department of The Argus. He had a hemorrhage of the lungs one day, and the doctors told his father that he would have to get out of Albany or die. His father was a poor laborer, and he was for a time in despair as to how to raise the money. He finally fixed it by sending the boy off on a sailing vessel to Cuba, and I am told that young Manning worked his passage. He stayed away a year or so, and came back to Albany with his lungs as sound as those of a lion and his health like that of a young satyr. He went back to The Argus and after making Grover Cleveland governor and president came here to Washington worth about $350,000. He is a good business man and is a great politician. He can judge a man at a glance, and he has been here the fidus achates of the president. He seems to be the only one of the cabinet in whom President Cleveland has trusted, and he has been to a certain extent the power behind the throne.

While Secretary Manning was on The Argus he did some newspaper writing. He was a good writer, but his forte was more that of business manager. He dictated a great part of his messages to congress, and he talked off his correspondence at the treasury department without a break. His chief trouble in the treasury department was the newness of the work and that he did not understand how to get other men to do his work for him. Division of labor is the secret of the workings of a great government department and a novice in one of them who tries to do everything for himself is sure to succumb to sickness or death before long.

The great men of this administration take too little exercise. This is President Cleveland's danger. He takes none whatever. He gets up early, eats his fruit, oatmeal, beefsteak and coffee and sits down to write and study while it digests. He works all day and far into the night and only occasionally takes a drive into the country. He has grown fatter since he has been in the White House, but gets along with very little sleep and appears to be healthy. At Albany he used to walk great deal, and always walked from the executive mansion to the Capitol. Here he does not walk at all, and his only exercise is in the shaking of the hands of about 150 men daily.

Secretary Lamar has been sick a number of times since he came into the interior department. After he sold the government carriage he rode about Washington on horseback for a time, and he now walks occasionally. But he is a dreamy fellow with every appearance of apoplectic temperament, and his complexion and eyes are those of a man in poor health. Lamar is a widower, and he lives here at a hotel, eating his meals alone and half the time not noticing what he is doing at the table. He is a man of great brains, but remarkably absent minded, and if he is riding in the street cars it is not uncommon for him to pay his fare more than once. Secretary Lamar dresses plainly and apparently cares very little for his personal appearance. He is a great reader and writes a good prose as Addison. He works hard, and he keeps up with his business to the surprise of all who know of his literary tastes.

Attorney General Garland has more of a home life than Lamar, though he is also a widower. His mother keeps his house for him, and he watches over him. Manning is as carefully as when he was the homeliest looking but best natured boy in Arkansas. Garland likes fun, and while he was in the senate he was the greatest practical joker there. His fellow senators all loved him, and they took advantage of his great taste for caramels one day by getting him to eat a cake of soap of chocolate color. It was given to Garland as candy by one of his fellow senators who was chewing away on genuine caramels. Garland took it and popped it in his mouth. Of course he knew the difference as soon as the soap touched his tongue, but his rough face changed not in a single feature, and the only difference in his appearance that could be noted was a sort of a hard glitter of the eye and a hubble or two of froth at the mouth, as he went on to masticate the practical joke which had been played upon him. Garland likes amusements. He is a Democrat of Democrats. He wears a slouch hat and a turn-over collar, around which he ties, for himself, a black string knotted every morning. He wears a shirt that buttons in front, with sewed on wristbands instead of attachable cuffs. His hair is generally disheveled, and his spectacles, while at work, fall down to the middle of his nose. A hair wave chain and a big seal ring are his only jewelry. He is a great fisher and hunter, and he has a country home in the west, eighteen miles from Little Rock, which he calls Hominy Hill. He has here a log cabin in the woods, where he likes to go to spend his vacation. With his pantaloons in his boots and no coat on, he loafed here with a friend or two, hunting and fishing until he has to leave for Washington. He never takes his business with him on such vacations, and when he left Washington last summer to go west he gave orders to his secretary to put his mail in a drawer in his desk until he came back, and on no account to write him about it or send it to him. When he came back the drawer was about full, but I doubt not that he attended to it better than though he had been bothered with it the six weeks he was absent.

Secretary Whitney's exercise keeps him in good order. He goes to New York occasionally and drives out to his country seat nearly every day. He walks to and from the department, and I don't think he lets his business bother him. He is the baby of the cabinet, you know; but it seems to me that he knows more sense than some of his older brothers. Secretary Bayard is a horseback rider, and when Kate Bayard was alive it was not uncommon for her and her father to take long excursions into the country about Washington. Secretary Bayard sits a horse well. He walks a great deal also, and has a classic step. He leans slightly forward as he walks, and, dressed in business clothes with a cane under his arm, he might be taken for an accomplished man about town instead of a great statesman. Bayard understands enough about Washington wining and dining not to let his stomach run away with him. He has made a study of gastronomy, and there are some dishes that he can cook himself better than any French chef in Washington. His family troubles have affected him quite seriously, however, and grief has cut a number of wrinkles into his handsome, statesmanlike face. He bears up like a man, however, and does his work as energetically as he did when his daughter, was a leading belle of Washington and his wife, the second lady.

A FIGHT!

Marks the Strike at Chicago To-day.

The Strikers Break up and Blockade a Train and Assault a Brakeman.

Jay Gould Gives a Faithful Deputy Sheriff a Check for $500—Strike News.

OPEN REVOLT.

A Lake Shore Train Stopped by Strikers.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, April 20.—General Superintendent Wright, Yardmaster Jones and General Freight Agent Blodgett, went out on an engine toward where the train which was attempted to be moved yesterday was standing, at Forty-fourth street. The cars were surrounded by a crowd of strikers, who removed couplings, completely disabling the cars.

The engine was backed on another track. The cars were standing on the side track. While an attempt was being made to reach the side track the coupling pins and other obstructions were put in front of the wheels. These were removed by the police and the engine was attached to the train. About this time the crowd at Forty-fourth street, having succeeded in disabling cars up there, attempted to run the caboose, which was attached to the train and in which the conductor and two brakemen were, on the side track.

The brakeman and conductor rushed out on the platform and warned the crowd away and one of the men picked up a pin and was about to throw it at the brakeman when the conductor drew a revolver. The crowd rushed at the brakeman and hustled him away. Some one hit him on the head, knocking him senseless.

At this time the crowd left the caboose and went up to Forty-fifth street, where two cars were standing on the side track. They were moved down and derailed in front of the engine at Forty-third street. General Superintendent Wright then gave up the attempt to move the train.

Gov. Oglesby arrived this morning and has been holding a consultation with Sheriff Hauchett.

AN ORDER

To Resume Traffic on all Surface Roads.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The executive committee of the Empire association, becoming satisfied that other roads were not backing up the Third avenue in the stand taken by the latter, issued an order directing the resumption of traffic on all surface lines except Third avenue, at 4 o'clock this morning. This is, however, with the understanding that a tie up may again be ordered when ever the committee is satisfied that other roads are helping Third avenue.

All the street car lines, save two, at New York were tied up yesterday, owing to the trouble on the Third Avenue line. The latter company sent out a car in the afternoon, Inspector Byrnes and four officers occupying the platform. A man who attempted to cut the lines was knocked senseless by the inspector. The following car was wrecked, however, a mob demolishing it with bricks. Officers charged the rioters, several of whom were wounded, while eight were made, risoners.

BOYCOTTERS INDICTED.
NEW YORK, April 20.—The grand jury indicted for conspiracy several of the foremost of the boycotters, who have walked up and down before the bakery of Mrs. Gray, distributing boycott circulars.

ELIZ, Pa., April 20.—The fire in the abandoned flouring mill of James Garvey, at Dunkirk, New York, yesterday, disclosed a horrible murder. The building has been closed for years, and has been the resort of tramps and desperate people. The body of a woman was found in one of the rooms which had been on fire, and was recognized as the wife of John Boies. The victim, Annie Boies, came to Dunkirk from Canada a few days ago, went out shopping in the evening and never returned.

An enthusiastic audience witnessed the opening performance of the Leonzo Brothers at the Academy last night. The play was "Brother against Brother," which offered sufficient sensational features, singing and dancing to furnish a very pleasing performance. But the bit of the show was the acting dogs, Lion and Tiger. They are announced as wonderful canines and this is really true of them, for they are perhaps the best "dramatic" dogs ever seen in Fort Wayne. The piece will be presented again to night. At both performances to-morrow, and on Thursday evening, "The Dog Spy" will be given.

The Indianapolis school board seems to be in a state of collapse. At a meeting of the other day the finance committee reported that the funds for the current year would not be sufficient by $28,000 to pay expenses, and asked the teachers to credit their pay until July, when the board can legally borrow money to pay them. The same committee report that the board will have outstanding indebtedness at the close of the present fiscal year amounting to $200,000. Putting the schools on half time or reducing salaries are proposed as remedies for this financial difficulty.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., April 20.—At six this morning the village of East Lee was inundated and devastated by the breaking away of the dam and mud point reservoir at Mountain Lake, about two and one-half miles from the village. The first news of the accident was when the flood came pouring down the streets from four to six feet deep, fences, wagons and every form of movable property coming with it. People fled to the slopes of the valley along which the torrent was pouring. They saw houses move and topple about like chips on a river. The damage done will amount to many thousands of dollars.

Eleven bodies have been found, and it is expected several more will be discovered. Three persons who were living in the track of the flood are missing. White's carriage shops are destroyed; the Harrison Garfield paper mill is undamaged; Decker, Verran and Gilmore's paper mills are badly damaged, and John McLaughlin's machine shops are totally wrecked.

I would hate to shoot you on Sunday, and disturb the quiet of the day, but if you don't start you are a dead man." The burglar turned on his heels, ran through the house, and escaped.

CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM.

Civil-service reform comes hard, because the evils against which it is aimed have been long entrenched in the body politic and can only be removed by heroic treatment. Because an abuse is of long standing, however, is no reason why it should be tolerated, and the assertion of such a principle is without rhyme or reason. Diseases which afflict the human body are not looked upon as blessings, because long endured, nor should those which afflict the state be considered so. Everything which is inconsistent with the most perfect working of the body and government must be gotten rid of. Such, at least, is the belief of Mr. W. D. Murphy, of No. 310 Yandes street, Indianapolis, who has recently been cured of rheumatism of twenty-five years' standing by that great remedy, Athlophoros. Age gave the disease no charm in his eyes, and he swept it away at the first opportunity. He himself tells all about the matter in this way:

"My rheumatism dates way back about twenty-five years. I first contracted it in the war, in which I served four years and six months. After returning home from service the disease seemed to assume a periodical form. I would have at least two severe attacks every year, but even between these attacks I would suffer all the time. These attacks prevented me from getting about, and many times I could not walk or get out of bed. They would catch me in the legs so that after standing awhile I would feel suddenly weak and in danger of falling."

"Was it during one of these attacks that you used Athlophoros?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"Yes; that's the time and that's when it did its work for me. I saw it advertised and sent to B. Brehm, the druggist on Columbia avenue, for a bottle. It was the afternoon I took the first dose and then at night I took another. I slept soundly that night. The next morning when I awoke I had no pain. I took a few doses more, only using about two-thirds of a bottle altogether and my rheumatism was all gone. That is over a year ago and I have only felt a little twinge of the pain since, but nothing to speak of."

"Do you know of any others who have used Athlophoros?"

"Yes. I have recommended it to many different persons. My confidence was so great in the medicine that in several instances I have bought bottles of it and given them to people, saying at the time that if it did not do its work they need not pay for it; but there is not a single case in which I did not have my money within a week. There is Mrs. Wright, an aged lady of seventy, living a few miles from here, who, after suffering from rheumatism for fifteen years, was entirely rid of it all in three or four bottles of Athlophoros. I recommended another lady, who was supposed to be suffering from dyspepsia, but who in reality had neuralgia of the stomach, to try Athlophoros, and it soon cured her. My neighbor, who had a severe attack of neuralgia, his face being swollen out of all shape, was cured by a few doses. My confidence in Athlophoros is very strong, and I believe that if any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia will take it right it will cure ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. It is worth $100 a bottle to every sufferer from rheumatism."

If you cannot get Athlophoros of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1886.

J. H. WILLIAMS, the humorous writer of the Norristown Herald, was once asked to write a biographical sketch of himself. He answered with the following: "Was born; learned the printing trade; was married; still live, and am growing old at the rate of twenty-four hours a day."

A DETROIT court is puzzled over the name of a Polish defendant, whose first name is Peter. The other is Czyzkyblajski or Jakliyski, or Zizyazghsky. His lawyer could puzzle the jury just as z z as anything, but a riot was avoided by compromising on the word Peter, and by this name the defendant went to trial.

A GEORGIA farmer, many of whose chickens went to feed owls and hawks, trimmed a tree so that little remained but a tall stump, and on top of this placed a well-baited steel trap. Before a big hawk broke the fastenings of the trap and flew away with the farmer had caught six owls, two hawks, and a buzzard.

WENDELL PHILLIPS was waiting once for the train at Essex Junction, Vt., where passengers at times have to exercise great patience. He saw a graveyard not far from the depot very full of graves, and inquired the reason. A Green Mountaineer calmly informed him that it was used to bury passengers in who died while waiting for the train.

There is a woman in the Chicago postoffice whose employment is to correct misdirected letters. Her brain is a business directory of the United States, and she knows where to locate every firm of any sort of prominence. If a clerk calls out a misdirected letter, as "Smith, Jones & Co., Chicago," she will very often indicate the correct address, as Louisville, Milwaukee, or Springfield, Massachusetts, without taking her attention from the work she is engaged in. During her term of service some 200,000 misdirected letters have been saved from the dead-letter office.

HER Majesty Queen Victoria is not partial to journalists as a class. But her determination to exclude anything in the shape of a newspaper representative from the recent circus performance at Windsor Castle was frustrated by one enterprising journalist, who dressed himself up as a groom and held up paper hoops for the equestriennes to jump through. This dauntless individual had a narrow escape, for his very literary-looking spectacles did not favor the impression that he was a circus groom and were the subject of royal suspicion and remark.

SENATOR PAYNE, of Ohio, is probably the most carelessly-dressed man in the Upper House of Congress. A correspondent says: "Going up the north end of the Capitol the other day in the elevator it was discovered that the Senator wore an unlaundried collar and a plain black silk tie which had evidently seen many years of service. It was tied in a half-bow in front and pinned to the collar behind about half way up, so that the ragged edge was more prominent than his body." The fact is the more remarkable as Mr. Payne once bore the reputation of being very particular in his dress.

It is said that Newcombe, the heir to the great Morgan estate in New York, was for many years a hard-working, robust, and vigorous plumber, who by diligent labor kept the mouths of a large family of children filled. The effect of the fortune upon him has been unfortunate. He has settled into a condition of pallid melancholy which nothing can lift. His ruddy color is gone, and he is as white as a spook. More than this, his face has taken on a pained and harassed look, and he exhibits a nervous haste in his movements which is almost pitiful. Along with the vast fortune, he inherited all of Mrs. Morgan's family coaches, and, being a conscientious man, he drives resolutely in them every afternoon, the picture of overworn and plaintive discontent. His good fortune has completely unnerved him. At least this is the representation of a New York letter-writer.

Election of Congressional and Senatorial Delegates.

The democrats of Allen county are requested to meet on Saturday, May 1, 1886, at the usual voting places in their respective wards, townships and precincts, for the purpose of electing, by ballot, forty-four delegates to participate in the convention, to be held at Auburn on the 13th day of May, 1886, for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for representative of the Twelfth district; also to elect forty-four delegates to participate in the senatorial convention, to be held at Fort Wayne on Wednesday, May 19, 1886. The wards, townships and precincts are entitled to the same number of delegates as the congressional convention. The apportionment is one delegate to every 200 votes cast for governor in 1884, and the townships, precincts and wards will therefore be entitled to the following number of delegates, respectively:

Abbotte.....1 Pleasant.....1
Adams.....1 Springfield.....1
Cedar.....1 St. Joe.....1
El River.....1 Wayne.....1
Jefferson.....1 Washington.....1
Lakeside.....1 First Ward.....1
Lake.....1 Second Ward.....1
Lafayette.....1 Third Ward.....1
Madison.....1 Fourth Ward.....1
Monroe.....1 Fifth Ward.....1
Marion.....1 Sixth Ward.....1
Millan.....1 Seventh Ward.....1
Maumee.....1 Eighth Ward.....1
New Haven.....1 Ninth Ward.....1
Ferry.....1

The members of the county central committee of the several wards, townships and voting precincts will cause the polls to be opened in the several townships and New Haven precinct, at 2 o'clock and kept open until 4 p. m., and in the several wards of the city of Fort Wayne will cause the polls to be opened at 4 o'clock and kept open until 7 o'clock.

By order of the Allen county democratic central committee.

JOHN WILKINSON, Chairman.

LOUIS FOX, Secretary.

A PRIZE FIGHT

Is Tearing Monroeville to Pieces

—Other News From That Lively Place.

Correspondence of THE SENTINEL.

Farmers are busy preparing for their spring crops.

C. W. Rollins has made considerable improvements in his saloon, which makes it one of the finest fashionable resorts of the kind in this city.

Bill Edwards has just returned from Tilton, Ga. He reports the orange trees badly damaged by the late unusual frosts, and other fruits and early vegetables are proportionately damaged. Bill says that he does not like the country down there.

A good grist mill would be of great advantage to the farmers of this place, who are forced to go ten or fifteen miles in order to get good flour. There is a talk of erecting a roller mill here next summer, but we hope that the scheme will not fall under, as it would be a paying improvement to our town.

Dr. D. Morgan, of Dixon, and Dr. C. A. Lester, will be candidates for congressional delegates for Monroe township at the democratic congressional convention to be held at the town hall, May 1. They are both strong for Lowry.

The missions of this place have purchased the cemetery east of town adjoining the Catholic cemetery, of Adam Scar, of Millersburg, Ohio, for $300. The trustees of the lodge intend to make great improvements and otherwise beautify the same.

The wheat in this vicinity looks better now than it did for many years past at the corresponding time.

The term of the Monroeville graded schools has been extended one month longer, making it in all a nine months term, which is six weeks hence. There will be an exhibition given by the schools in one of the churches.

A number of our people have made arrangements with W. J. Hawksworth, the champion pugilist of Indiana, to be here next Saturday to fight Barney McClellan, formerly of Chicago, but now of this place. The entertainment will be given next Saturday evening at the Redelheimer hall, for a purse of $25 and entrance money. Barney saw Hawksworth do up Butts and some other fellow at Fort Wayne and he thinks he can do Hawksworth up nicely. Barney is a knocker and has been in mills before. Considerable betting is going on on both sides. Before the fight there will be sparring matches between Ben Porter and Jim Curren, of Fort Wayne and other renowned boxers. Admission ten cents.

The members of the M. E. church are highly pleased to learn that Rev. J. J. Bicknell will remain here, in accordance with the decision of the members of the late M. E. conference, held at Warsaw. The reverend gentleman has many warm friends in this place.

THREE REASONS

Why every one needs, and should take Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:—

1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a great amount of good now than any other time. Take it now.

The American consul general at Rome telegraphs Secretary Bayard that sixteen persons died last week at Brindisi from cholera.

"Is there no balm in Gilead?"

"Is there no physician there?"

Thanks to Dr. Pierce, there is a balm in his "Golden Medical Discovery"—a "balm for every wound" to health, from colds, coughs, consumption, bronchitis, and all chronic, blood, lung and liver affections. Of druggists.

THE Yuma Sentinel tells of a natural telephone in the wonderful Pacific coast country. It says that a train of cars is plainly heard on the line of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad at The Needles for a distance of seventy-eight miles to a place called Cottonwood Island. The discharge of the sunrise gun at Fort Mohave can be plainly heard at Colorado Canon, a distance of 100 miles. Sounds can be understood in the narrows of the Grand Canon of the Colorado for a distance of eighteen miles. The whistle of a Colorado steamer can be heard from El Dorado Canon to Weaverville, the head of navigation, a distance of seventy-eight miles, and by tumbling a rock over the precipice at Lee's Ferry you can plainly hear the echo down the river at Weaverville, a distance of thirty-six miles.

MR. A. HIGGINS, of Wyoming, N. Y., says he had the piles for nearly 40 years, and was cured by using Gilmore's Pile Specific.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly and I have not felt so well for a long time. I need to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week, but since using the balm have only had "now and then" that was very light, compared with the former ones. A. J. Alcorn, agent U. ### ALMOST MURDER.

Mrs. Gottlieb Brudi Unconscious Since Her Assault Yesterday.

The grand jury is in secret and mysterious session. The case of Henry Petit, who made a brutal assault on Mrs. Gottlieb Brudi, in Adams township, yesterday, is being investigated. Mrs. Brudi is not able to be present, in fact she is almost dead. The ruffianly fellow kicked the woman several times, broke two of her ribs and injured her internally. She was unconscious all night, and her relatives have been summoned to her bedside. Petit may have to answer the charge of murder and, at any rate, he has the next most serious accusation to explain away. The grand jury will not define his guilt until the extent of Mrs. Brudi's injuries are known.

He was found to be dangerously if not fatally injured. Dr. Duncan, who was called in to attend him, paid every attention to the wounded man, and last night he was taken on No. 43 to the Peru hospital. Mr. Woodbeck has many friends in this city who will be sorry to learn of the accident. He is a married man.

FEDERAL JUDGES.

Their Finances are to get a Boom.

Special to THE SENTINEL.
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Mr. Collins, from the committee on judiciary reported a bill fixing the salaries of United States district judges at $5,000.

The secretary of the treasury, this afternoon, issued a call for $10,000,000 three per cent. bonds for June 1.

POWDERLY AT WASHINGTON.
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Grand Master Powderly and Messrs. Hays and Turner, of the Knights of Labor, arrived this morning to be examined this afternoon by a select committee on the western strikes.

The committee for the investigation of the strikes on railroads in the southwest, held their first meeting this afternoon. Mr. Powderly was the first witness examined.

CABINET OFFICERS.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Secretary Manning's illness is undoubtedly due to overwork. He came here from Albany the previous day. His eyes were bright, his step steady and the joints of his ponderous frame were well oiled. He had been accustomed to walking a good deal in Albany, and his work was such as to keep him moving about. Here he took no exercise whatever, and he looked no more like a man who had done before him. He lived at first at the Arlington hotel, which is about two blocks from the White House. His carriage was called to carry him this short distance, and on cabinet days he rode to the White House, where he remained just around the corner and whose front door is not 300 feet away from the side door of the treasury. When his wife came here, and he moved out to Dupont circle, he took, for a time, a short drive after he left the department, and Mrs. Manning came down in the carriage for him almost daily. During the winter these drives were often omitted, and not long ago Mr. Manning, feeling the need of more exercise, determined to walk down to the treasury every morning. He did this for a day or so. The distance is about a mile, and he had continued it might have saved him. But he found that the office clerks laid in wait for him and that he could not get to work on time. He then went back to his carriage and worked on until he dropped.

The treasury building is the darkest and gloomiest structure in Washington. It is a great oblong stone building with big, dark, Ionic columns running along its sides, and it looks for all the world like the gigantic sarcophagus of some antediluvian giant. Its massiveness is oppressive, and the only bright spots in it are the south rooms, which look out toward the Washington monument and across the Potomac to Arlington and the Virginia hills. Three of these rooms, on the second floor, constitute the offices of the secretary of the treasury, and it is in these that Manning has spent the greater part of the past year.

Let us give you his daily life. He rose from his bed at 6 o'clock and by 8 or a little later his carriage brought him to the department. Entering by the basement door, he would ride to his floor in the elevator, and immediately begin at his mail, with his stenographic secretary sitting on the opposite side of his big flat desk, and ready to take down his answers to the letters as he looked them over. This first mail would perhaps contain 300 letters, and most of these would require much thought. He would be answering them when 10 or 11 o'clock came, and with this hour a throng of callers, business men and office seekers. At first he receives these, as the president does now, admitting them to his office and going around the ring talking to each and shaking hands with every one. This was also brain work, and later on he found it took up too much of his time. He then took refuge in his ante-room and admitted only such callers as had important business. About 2 o'clock the callers would be shut off and the secretary would take his lunch. This he would eat at his desk, and it was brought down by his boy from his home to him. It generally consisted of some fruit and a sandwich of chicken, turkey or tongue. Manning would not even rest while he was eating it, but would have the department officials admitted and would discuss questions of finance and would look over the papers which they presented to him. He would then go back to answering letters. Besides the 300 of the first mail, he would now find, perhaps, the 100 or 200 additional had come in later. About 4 o'clock a number of letters and papers would be brought to him to sign, and I doubt not that these often ran into the hundreds. It would take thought to look over them, and when he was through he would again dictate letters until about 6 o'clock. Then his carriage and Mrs. Manning would come, and he would go out home. He did not come to the treasury at night, but he always took work home with him, and he often sat up as late as 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. He worked more hours than the street car driver, and his brain had less rest than the penitentiary of a 400-day gaol. He paid little attention to society, gave not more than one or two dinners during the whole season, and went to none except those of the cabinet ministers and the president.

OPEN REVOLT.

A Lake Shore Train Stopped by Strikers.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
CHICAGO, April 20.—General Superintendent Wright, Yardmaster Jones and General Freight Agent Blodgett, went out on an engine toward where the train which was attempted to be moved yesterday was standing, at Forty-fourth street. The cars were surrounded by a crowd of strikers, who removed couplings, completely disabling the cars.

The engine was backed on another track. The cars were standing on the side track. While an attempt was being made to reach the side track the coupling pins and other obstructions were put in front of the wheels. These were removed by the police and the engine was attached to the train. About this time the crowd at Forty-fourth street, having succeeded in disabling cars up there, attempted to run the engine, which was attached to the train and in which the conductor and two brakemen were, on the side track.

The brakeman and conductor rushed out on the platform and warned the crowd away and one of the men picked up a pin and was about to throw it at the brakeman when the conductor drew a revolver. The crowd rushed at the brakeman and hustled him away. Some one hit him on the head, knocking him senseless.

At this time the crowd left the engine and went up to Forty-fifth street, where two cars were standing on the side track. They were moved down and derailed in front of the engine at Forty-third street. General Superintendent Wright then gave up the attempt to move the train.

AN ORDER.

To Resume Traffic on all Surface Roads.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

New York, April 20.—The executive committee of the Empire association, becoming satisfied that other roads were not backing up the Third Avenue in the stand taken by the latter, issued an order directing the resumption of traffic on all surface lines except Third Avenue, at 4 o'clock this morning. This is, however, with the understanding that a tie up may again be ordered when ever the committee is satisfied that other roads are helping Third Avenue.

All the street car lines, save two, at New York were tied up yesterday, owing to the trouble on the Third Avenue line. The latter company sent out a car in the afternoon, Inspector Byrnes and four officers occupying the platform. A man who attempted to cut the lines was knocked senseless by the inspector. The following car was wrecked, however, a mob demolishing it with bricks. Officers charged the rioters, several of whom were wounded, while eight were made prisoners.

BOYCOTTERS INDICED.

New York, April 20.—The grand jury indicted for conspiracy several of the foremost of the boycotters, who have walked up and down before the bakery of Mrs. Gray, distributing boycott circulars.

An enthusiastic audience witnessed the opening performance of the Leonzo Brothers at the Academy last night. The play was "Brother against Brother," which offered sufficient sensational features, singing and dancing to furnish a very pleasing performance. But the hit of the show was the acting dogs, Lion and Tiger. They are announced as wonderful canines and this is really true of them, for they are perhaps the best "dramatic" dogs ever seen in Fort Wayne. The piece will be presented again to night. At both performances to-morrow, and on Thursday evening, "The Dog Bury" will be given.

The Rev. Dr. McLaren, of the Central Presbyterian Church in St. Paul, awoke and saw a burglar creeping into the room with a revolver in his hand. The Doctor reached over the side of his bed, picked up a small stick, and, pointing it directly at the intruder, said: "Now, if you don't get out of here I'll shoot you dead. I would hate to shoot you on Sunday, and disturb the quiet of the day, but if you don't start you are a dead man." The burglar turned on his heels, ran through the house, and escaped.

AWFUL!

The Town of East Lee Wiped Out.

A Reservoir Breaks and the Angry Flood Sweeps Furiously Over The Village.

Eleven Dead People Picked up and Buildings Tossed About Like Chips.

IN A DELUGE.

A Massachusetts Town Washed Away.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
PITTSFIELD, Mass., April 20.—At six this morning the village of East Lee was inundated and devastated by the breaking away of the dam and mud point reservoir at Mountain Lake, about two and one-half miles from the village.

The first news of the accident was when the flood came pouring down the streets from four to six feet deep, fences, wagons and every form of movable property coming with it. People fled to the slopes of the valley along which the torrent was pouring. They saw houses move and topple about like chips on a river. The damage done will amount to many thousands of dollars.

Eleven bodies have been found, and it is expected several more will be discovered. Three persons who were living in the track of the flood are missing. White's carriage shops are destroyed; the Harrison Garfield paper mill is undamaged; Decker, Verran and Gilmore's paper mills are badly damaged, and John McLaughlin's machine shops are totally wrecked.

HOPELESS
Is the Condition of Ex-President Arthur.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
New York, April 20.—The World says of ex-President Arthur: "It may not be beyond the simple truth to say that his case is hopeless."

The Sun, this morning, says: "At the home of ex-President Chester A. Arthur, last night, it was said he was getting well slowly."

FIRE RECORD.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CINCINNATI, April 20.—Fire this morning destroyed the flour mills of Teasles, Fould & Co., corner Race and Court streets. Loss $50,000; fully insured. The building belonged to W. H. Alms, amply insured.

READING, Pa., April 20.—A fire this morning partially destroyed G. F. McDonald's carriage factory and bakery, on Second avenue. Loss, $17,000; insured for $18,000.

Peter Kavanaugh, an old cripple of Detroit, has just fallen heir to an estate worth $1,000,000 left by his sister, who died in Sydney, New South Wales.

Long John Wentworth, of Chicago, who has grown so stout as to be broad John also, approached his recent seventy-first birthday with apprehension that it involved some crisis in his destiny, but having passed that goal he is now radiantly confident that he will live to be ninety.

"Is a man or woman justified in telling a lie," was debated in a western literary society. When we say that thousands have been cured by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup we tell the whole truth.

CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM.

Civil-service reform comes hard, because the evils against which it is aimed have been long entrenched in the body politic and can only be removed by heroic treatment. Because an abuse is of long standing, however, is no reason why it should be tolerated, and the assertion of such a principle is without rhyme or reason. Diseases which afflict the human body are not looked upon as blessings because long endured, nor should those which afflict the state be considered so. Everything which is inconsistent with the most perfect working of the body, and government must be gotten rid of. Such, at least, is the belief of Mr. W. D. Murphy, of No. 810 Van Ness street, Indianapolis, who has recently been cured of rheumatism of twenty-five years' standing by that great remedy, Athlophoros. Age gave the disease no claim in his eyes, and he swept it away at the first opportunity. He himself tells all about the matter in this way:

"My rheumatism dates way back about twenty-five years. I first contracted it in the war, in which I served four years and six months. After returning home from service the disease seemed to assume a periodical form. I would have at least two severe attacks every year, but even between these attacks I would suffer all the time. These attacks prevented me from getting about, and many times I could not walk or get out of bed. They would catch me in the legs so that after standing awhile I would feel suddenly weak and in danger of falling."

"Was it during one of these attacks that you used Athlophoros?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"Yes; that's the time and that's when it did its work for me. I saw it advertised and sent to R. Drem, the druggist on Columbia avenue, for a bottle. It was in the afternoon I took the first dose and then at night I took another. I slept soundly that night. The next morning when I awoke I had no pain. I took a few doses more, only using about two-thirds of a bottle altogether and my rheumatism was all gone. That is over a year ago and I have only felt a little twinge of the pain since, but nothing to speak of."

"Do you know of any others who have used Athlophoros?"

"Yes, I have recommended it to many different persons. My confidence was so great in the medicine that in several instances I have bought bottles of it and given them to people, saying at the time that if it did not do its work they need not pay for it; but there is not a single case in which I did not have my money within a week. There is Mrs. Wright, an aged lady of seventy, living a few miles from here, who, after suffering from rheumatic pains for fifteen years, was entirely rid of all pain by three or four bottles of Athlophoros. I recommended another lady, who was supposed to be suffering from dyspepsia, but who in reality had neuralgia of the stomach, to try Athlophoros, and it soon cured her. My neighbor, who had a severe attack of neuralgia, his face being swollen out of all shape, was cured by a few doses. My confidence in Athlophoros is very strong, and I believe that if any one suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia will take it right it will cure ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. It is worth $100 a bottle to every sufferer from rheumatism."

If you cannot get Athlophoros of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We warrant that you buy it from our druggist, but if he has not it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. Attention: Co. 112 Wall Street, New York.

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1886.

J. H. WILLIAMS, the humorous writer of the Norristown Herald, was once asked to write a biographical sketch of himself. He answered with the following: "Was born; learned the printing trade; was married; still live, and am growing old at the rate of twenty-four hours a day."

A DETROIT court is puzzled over the name of a Polish defendant, whose first name is Peter. The other is Cyszkylajski or Jakliskyski, or Zizyazgbsky. His lawyer could puzzle the jury just as z z as anything, but a riot was avoided by compromising on the word Peter, and by this name the defendant went to trial.

A GEORGIA farmer, many of whose chickens went to feed owls and hawks, trimmed a tree so that little remained but a tall stump, and on top of this placed a well-baited steel trap. Before a big hawk broke the fastenings of the trap and flew away with it the farmer had caught six owls, two hawks, and a buzzard.

WENDELL PHILLIPS was waiting once for the train at Essex Junction, Vt., where passengers at times have to exercise great patience. He saw a graveyard not far from the depot very full of graves, and inquired the reason. A Green Mountaineer calmly informed him that it was used to bury passengers in who died while waiting for the train.

There is a woman in the Chicago postoffice whose employment is to correct misdirected letters. Her brain is a business directory of the United States, and she knows where to locate every firm of any sort of prominence. If a clerk calls out a misdirected letter, as "Smith, Jones & Co., Chicago," she will very often indicate the correct address, as Louisville, Milwaukee, or Springfield, Massachusetts, without taking her attention from the work she is engaged in. During her term of service some 200,000 misdirected letters have been saved from the dead-letter office.

Her Majesty Queen Victoria is not partial to journalists as a class. But her determination to exclude anything in the shape of a newspaper representative from the recent circus performance at Windsor Castle was frustrated by one enterprising journalist, who dressed himself up as a groom and held up paper hoops for the equestriennes to jump through. This dauntless individual had a narrow escape, for his very literary-looking spectacles did not favor the impression that he was a circus groom and were the subject of royal suspicion and remark.

SENATOR LAYNE, of Ohio, is probably the most carelessly-dressed man in the Upper House of Congress. A correspondent says: "Going up the north end of the Capitol the other day in the elevator it was discovered that the Senator wore an unbuttoned collar and a plain black silk tie which had evidently seen many years of service. It was tied in a half-bow in front and pinned to the collar behind about half way up, so that the ragged edge was more prominent than its body." This fact is the more remarkable as Mr. Payne once bore the reputation of being very particular in his dress.

It is said that Newcombe, the heir to the great Morgan estate in New York, was for many years a hard-working, robust, and vigorous plumber, who by diligent labor kept the mouths of a large family of children filled. The effect of the fortune upon him has been unfortunate. He has settled into a condition of pallid melancholy which nothing can lift. His ruddy color is gone, and he is as white as a spook. More than this, his face has taken on a pained and haggard look, and he exhibits a nervous haste in his movements which is almost pitiful. Along with the vast fortune, he inherited all of Mrs. Morgan's family enclaves, and, being a conscientious man, he drives resolutely into them every afternoon, the picture of overworked and plaintive discontent. His good fortune has completely unnerved him. At least this is the representation of a New York letter-writer.

Election of Congressional and Senatorial Delegates.

The Democrats of Allen county are requested to meet on Saturday, May 1, 1886, at the usual voting places in their respective wards, townships and precincts, for the purpose of electing, by ballot, forty-four delegates to participate in the convention, to be held at Auburn on the 13th day of May, 1886, for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for representative of the Twelfth district; also to elect forty-four delegates to participate in the senatorial convention, to be held at Fort Wayne on Wednesday, May 19, 1886. The wards, townships and precincts are entitled to the same number of delegates as the congressional convention. The apportionment is one delegate to every 200 votes cast for governor in 1884, and the townships, precincts and wards will therefore be entitled to the following number of delegates, respectively:

Abledo	1	Pleasant	1
Adams	1	Springfield	1
Cedar Creek	1	Sulpho	1
Elk River	1	St. Joe	1
Jefferson	1	Washington	1
Jackson	1	Washington	1
Lake	1	First Ward	1
Lafayette	1	Second Ward	1
Madison	1	Third Ward	1
McGro	1	Fourth Ward	1
Marion	1	Fifth Ward	1
Milam	1	Sixth Ward	1
Nature	1	Seventh Ward	1
New Haven	1	Eighth Ward	1
Perry	1	Ninth Ward	1

The members of the county central committee of the several wards, townships and voting precincts will cause the polls to be opened in the several townships and New Haven precinct, at 2 o'clock and kept open until 4 p. m., and in the several wards of the city of Fort Wayne will cause the polls to be opened at 4 o'clock and kept open until 7 o'clock.

By order of the Allen county democratic central committee.

JOHN WILKINSON,
Chairman.

Louis Fox, Secretary.

A PRIZE FIGHT

Is Tearing Monroeville to Pieces—Other News From That Lively Place.

Correspondence of THE SENTINEL.

Farmers are busy preparing for their spring crops.

C. W. Rollins has made considerable improvements in his saloon, which makes it one of the finest fashionable resorts of the kind in this city.

Bill Edwards has just returned from Tilton, Ga. He reports the orangetrees badly damaged by the late unusual frosts, and other fruits and early vegetables are proportionately damaged. Bill says that he does not like the country down there.

A good grist mill would be of great advantage to the farmers of this place, who are forced to go ten or fifteen miles in order to get good flour. There is a talk of erecting a roller mill here next summer, but we hope that the scheme will not fall under, as it would be a paying improvement to our town.

Dr. J. D. Morgan, of Dixon, and Dr. C. A. Leiter, will be candidates for congressional delegates for Monroe township at the democratic congressional convention to be held at the town hall, May 1. They are both strong for Lowry.

The masons of this place have purchased the cemetery east of town adjoining the Catholic cemetery, of Adam Sen, of Millersburg, Ohio, for $300. The trustees of the lodge intend to make great improvements and otherwise beautify the same.

The wheat in this vicinity looks better now than it did for many years past at the corresponding time.

The term of the Monroeville graded schools has been extended one month longer, making it in all a nine months term, which is six weeks hence. There will be an exhibition given by the schools in one of the churches.

A number of our people have made arrangements with W. J. Hawksworth, the champion pugilist of Indiana, to be here next Saturday to fight Barney McClellan, formerly of Chicago, but now of this place. The entertainment will be given next Saturday evening at the Redelshimer hall, for a purse of $25 and entrance money. Barney saw Hawksworth do up Butts and some other fellow at Fort Wayne and he thinks he can do Hawksworth up nicely. Barney is a knocker and has been in mills before. Considerable betting is going on on both sides. Before the fight there will be sparring matches between Ben Porter and Jim Curran, of Fort Wayne and other renowned boxers. Admission ten cents.

The members of the M. E. church are highly pleased to learn that Rev. J. J. Bicknell will remain here, in accordance with the decision of the members of the late M. E. conference, held at Warsaw. The reverend gentleman has many warm friends in this place.

THREE REASONS

Why every one needs, and should take Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring:—
1st: Because the system is now in its greatest need. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives strength.

2d: Because the blood is sluggish and impure. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies.

3d: Because, from the above facts, Hood's Sarsaparilla will do a greater amount of good now than any other time. Take it now.

"Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no physician there?"

Thanks to Dr. Pierce, there is a balm in his "Golden Medical Discovery"—a "balm for every ailment" to health, from colds, coughs, consumption, bronchitis, and all chronic, blood, lung and liver affections. Of druggists.

THE Yuma Sentinel tells of a natural telephone in the wonderful Pacific coast country. It says that a train of cars is plainly heard on the line of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad at The Needles for a distance of seventy-eight miles to a place called Cottonwood Island. The discharge of the sunrise gun at Fort Mohave can be plainly heard at Colorado Canon, a distance of 100 miles. Sounds can be understood in the narrows of the Grand Canon of the Colorado for a distance of eighteen miles. The whistle of a Colorado steamer can be heard from El Dorado Canon to Weaver's, the head of navigation, a distance of seventy-eight miles, and by tumbling a rock over the precipice at Lee's Ferry you can plainly hear the echo down the river at Weaver's, a distance of thirty-six miles.

"We are selling Athlophoros, and it gives excellent satisfaction, better than any other rheumatic remedy we have ever sold," is the experience of O. Eldred & Son, druggists, of Ligonier, Ind., voicing the general approval of the great remedy.

The Canadian government has placed an additional duty of 7 1/2 per cent. on sugars imported through the United States.

ANSON HOUGH, of Blackberry, Ill., says he owes his life to Gilmore's Magnetic Elixir. Try it.

MR. A. HIGGINS, of Wyoming, N. Y., says he had the piles for nearly 40 years, and was cured by using Gilmore's Pile specific.

JOHN H. YATES, of Batavia, N. Y., says:

"I cheerfully commend your AROMATIC WINE. It did new life and vigor to me. Through this week frame of mine. I did for all my ailments. More than the doctor and his pills." For sale by Dreier & Bro's, and G. H. Gumpert.

The pooled cable lines will on May 1 make a reduction of 70 per cent. from all points east of the Mississippi river to Great Britain, France or Germany, leaving the rate twelve cents per word.

The condition of Ex-President Arthur's health is kept a secret by his family and physicians, and it is generally believed that he is quite ill.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for colic. I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly and have not felt so well for a long time. I used to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week, but since using the balm have only had one and that was very light compared with the former ones.—A. J. Alcorn, agent U. P. Ry Co., Baton, Co.

I find Ely's Cream Balm good for catarrh of long standing.—M. N. Lusley, 1934 West Chestnut St., Louisville.
